SAN FRANCISCO RESIDENTIAL RENT STABILIZATION & ARBITRATION BOARD

Did you know you may be due interest on your security deposit? Chapter 49 of the San Francisco Administrative Code requires landlords to pay interest annually on deposits held on residential property. Landlords are required to pay interest on all monies held over one year, regardless of what the deposit is called. Interest payments apply to all residential rental units in San Francisco, including those exempt from the Rent Ordinance. If your rent is subsidized by a government agency, the interest payment requirement does not apply. Usually, the security deposit interest is due the same month the landlord first received the deposit. From March 1, 2011 through February 29, 2012, the interest rate on security deposits is 0.4%. More details about security deposit interest can be found at www.sfrb.org. Information on over 80 topics of interest to landlords and tenants is available in English, Spanish, and Chinese by calling 415-252-4600.
